This internship was interesting for me, from the beginning of the fourth year I knew that I wanted to do an internship in a company and not in university to discover more in depth the world of work and do more concrete work where I can see the result. I was not disappointed; I was working for clients and I could see what relationships to have with them and get feedback on my work. I enjoyed participating in the meetings and seeing how it can happen between the creative company and the customers.

Then I was able to see how to place an order with a company, the time taken by customers to respond to us that exceeded our expectations while the latter asked us to take care of their software as soon as possible.

In addition, I was able to see how companies work according to their origins (because we worked with local Thai companies or sometimes companies with European management). So, I loved to see the differences between employees and companies from different cultures. In my company, my boss is Belgian, and all the interns and employees were Thai, so I also discovered how to build a relationship and work differently with them.

Then I really enjoyed working on different projects, projects where I had to work independently without delay and projects of sharing with interns and employees with rather short deadlines.

During my internship, I had to learn new software and work on languages that I knew well. It was a very good experience to work on projects that require several languages, I was able to improve those languages and my experiences on computer projects.

Moreover, I was very well received in this company and I very quickly could take my marks and feel comfortable.
